KAPPAHL PUBLISHES SUPPLIER LIST

Today fashion chain KappAhl publishes their supplier list. By doing so KappAhl want to contribute further to increased transparency and faster development of textile production. They also wish to promote further dialogue with other stakeholders in the ongoing sustainability efforts.

The company summarizes the announcement as follows:

"KappAhl's brand is associated with fashion, design and quality. It also stands for responsibility, care and safety. Sustainability is an integrated part of our daily activities. We act with a long term business perspective and strive to work proactively with issues related to quality, environment, safety, working conditions and social matters.

For many years, we have worked hard to build strong relationships with our suppliers, based on knowledge sharing, mutual trust and transparency. By publishing our suppliers list, we aim to contribute to increased transparency and accelerated development of conditions in textile production. We also promote further dialogue with other stakeholders in the ongoing sustainability efforts."

The publication was preceded by an extensive effort to maintain good long term relationships with suppliers and from a competitive perspective, secure access to the best production of each and every occasion. The supplier list can be read in its entirety at www.kappahl.com (quick link here >>).
